Florida House of Representatives – House Redistricting Committee Redistricting Update – March 25, 2011

The 2010 Census Redistricting Data is Loaded into MyDistrictBuilder

March 17, the U.S. Census Bureau provided Florida with its 2010 Census Redistricting data, the block-by-block data that the House will use as the foundation for the redistricting process. Today, our House Redistricting Committee successfully loaded that data into the “beta” version of MyDistrictBuilder, which you can access via the banner at www.floridaredistricting.org or directly at <http://floridaredistricting.cloudapp.net/MyDistrictBuilder.aspx>.

With the 2010 Census data in-hand, you can now use MyDistrictBuilder to become familiar with the new portrait of Florida’s many communities. You will see that the data grid (bottom of the screen) and region labels include new values. Currently, values from the 2010 Census and the American Community Survey are included.

Note: The “Save” and “Open” functions will be disabled for the next couple weeks, as we continue to improve the functionality of the site.

Public Participation

This week, Speaker Designate Will Weatherford, Chair of the House Redistricting Committee, spoke to the League of Women Voters of Florida, the Florida Association of Counties and The Florida League of Cities about the importance of public participation in redistricting. Chair Weatherford’s talking points for these events can be found below or by visiting www.floridaredistricting.org, and looking under “Legislative Resources” where all the House’s redistricting presentations are included.

to include the widget on your website, the Census Bureau made the code available at <http://2010.census.gov/2010census/data/>.

If you have the opportunity to visit MyDistrictBuilder in the near future, we truly appreciate any feedback that you can provide. Thus far, user feedback and suggestions have proven to be the greatest benefit of openly developing this application. Thank you so much for your continued interest and involvement.
