New Data Releases Available – As Used in MyDistrictBuilder

This week we updated our “Data House” document at www.floridaredistricting.org to include links to five new data sets for download (Help and How-to for Microsoft Access files). The links allow anyone to download Florida’s 2010 Census data, American Community Survey data, and other information in the same format used in MyDistrictBuilder. Whether you want to just inspect the data, mine the data for research purposes, or use it for any other reason, we are making this information accessible to anyone.

You can also directly download the data by visiting:

- Florida’s 2010 Census Data
- Florida’s 2010 Census Geography
- Lookup table to cross reference the geography files
- American Community Survey
- Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles Data – Only aggregate counts of people in Florida who had an active driver’s license or identification card and were 18 years or older, shown by the different layers of census geography available for view in MyDistrictBuilder. Does NOT include personal identifying information.
