

Redistricting By the Numbers

- 18,801,310 People who reside in Florida
- 2,818,932 More people reside in Florida than did ten years ago (2000 Census to the 2010 Census)
- 99,463 Floridians who live overseas
- 411 Municipalities in Florida
- 120 State House districts in Florida
- 67 Counties in Florida
- 60 Days in Florida's 2012 Legislative Session, January 10 to March 9, 2012
- 40 State Senate districts in Florida
- 27 U.S. Congressional districts in Florida after the 2012 redistricting (was 25 after 2002)
- 10 Years between each redistricting of Florida's political boundary lines
- 4th Florida's rank among the 50 states for resident population
- +2 Additional seats in the U.S. Congress for Florida based on the 2010 Census
- 1 Person was the difference in population between Florida's largest and smallest Congressional districts when Florida last redistricted in 2002

* Population numbers are based on the April 1, 2010 Census.

After the 2000 Census, the ideal populations for each district in Florida were:

- Congressional: 639,295
- State Senate: 399,559
- State House: 133,186

After the 2010 Census, the ideal populations for each district in Florida will be:

- Congressional: 696,345
- State Senate: 470,033
- State House: 156,678

